

BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT LAUNCHES SERVICED OFFICE SEARCH & LOCATE IPHONE APPLICATION

Business Environment (BE), the leading owner and provider of serviced offices in London and the South of England, is launching an exciting new iPhone application. Users will be able to conveniently search, locate and contact a Business Environment serviced office wherever and whenever necessary. Not only will this make life easier for those searching for a serviced office but it will also be free to use.

Business Environment is the first serviced office provider to launch an application of this kind. Matching business needs from 1 to over 250 people, users will be able to gain up-to-date, tailored feedback on Business Environment serviced office space in a quick and convenient way. With instant information on the availability of hundreds of offices accessible at the touch of a button, this innovative application will be a welcome development for small and medium enterprises looking for serviced office space.

Available on the iPhone and iTouch, users will be able to take advantage of the following features:

- Search and locate by geographical location
- Search and locate by post code/address
- View a list of services available at serviced offices
- View a photo gallery of the offices
- Email location function
- Contact details of serviced offices

A new hand-held tool for those in search of a fully functional serviced office, the application begins with one of two approaches: find an office geographically using the devices location services or search for offices via an address or postcode.

If searching geographically, the application will locate your current position via mapping and pin point all Business Environment offices nearby. If searching by address, a list of offices will be provided ranked in distance from the chosen location. Users can then go on to select an office of their choice and view a photo gallery or list of services available at this address. To make things even easier for users of the app, there is then the ability to view directions to the office in question or to email the details to a friend or colleague.

David Saul, Business Environment Managing Director says of their new technology: “We are very excited about the launch of the Business Environment search and locate application and believe it will be a fantastic addition to the services we offer already. There isn’t an app out there like this and we hope it will be an invaluable tool for those searching for new, top of the range serviced office space.”
